

Position on Coronavirus (COVID-19)

Caraday Healthcare is a leader in skilled nursing, delivering integrated and coordinated care along the long-term and post-acute care continuum.

Given the increasing impact of the Coronavirus (also known as COVID-19) and the particular risk it poses to elderly populations, our leadership team has announced proactive, data-driven, informed plans to take every precautionary measure to ensure the safety of our residents and staff in all 13 Caraday Healthcare centers in Texas. We also will strive to be a model for reliable and informed communication for our patients, residents, families, employees, and the broader communities in which we serve.

To protect our patients and residents, we are no longer permitting medically unnecessary visitors and restricting access to our communities, following guidelines issued by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the World Health Organization (WHO), and the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS). In emergency circumstances, those who believe a visit to a Caraday center is necessary are instructed to contact that center's administrator in advance.

In lieu of in-person visits, we are encouraging families and friends to seek other ways to maintain communications with our residents, such as Skype and Facetime, and Caraday will help facilitate those communications with the deployment of smart devices in our communities and guides to facilitate virtual communications and social connectedness.

We will continue to actively communicate the steps Caraday is taking to protect all of our communities, as well as disseminate ongoing news and updates regarding COVID-19 and guidelines people can use to better protect themselves as a matter of course.
