

Jennifer Oguin, RN

Director of Nursing, Trinity Care Center

Trinity Care Center is recognized as one of Newsweek®'s America's Best Nursing Homes—the only community in the greater Austin region to receive the honor. The community provides short-term rehabilitation and long-term care, with an interdisciplinary team partnering with residents and families to deliver personalized care focused on restoring the highest level of function possible.

Jennifer Oguin is the Director of Nursing at Caraday Healthcare and has been part of the Caraday and Trinity family for five years. With more than 16 years of experience in long-term care, she brings deep clinical knowledge, steady leadership, and a strong commitment to supporting residents, families, and care teams.

Jennifer began her career at Trinity Care Center in 2008 as a CNA and progressed through nearly every clinical role, including restorative aide, LVN charge nurse, treatment nurse, Assistant Director of Nursing, and Resident Director in assisted living. After earning her RN in 2020, she returned to Trinity to serve as Director of Nursing. She completed her BSN at the University of Texas at Arlington in 2024.

At the heart of Jennifer's leadership is a focus on compassion, teamwork, and trust—ensuring residents feel supported and families feel confident in the care their loved ones receive. She is guided by the belief that how people are made to feel matters most, a philosophy reflected in her day-to-day leadership.

Outside of work, Jennifer enjoys DIY projects, traveling, and spending time at her boys' football and basketball games. A fun fact: she was born on a Navy base on the island of Guam.
